E. H. POLLARD, Esq.

The Scheme of a Local Bank for this Colony with Branches at the most important places in China, has been in contemplation for a very long period.

The local and foreign trade in Hongkong and at the open ports in China and Japan has increased to rapidly within the last few years that additional Banking facilities are felt to be required.

The Banks now in China being only branches of Corporations whose head-quarters are in England or India, and which were formed chiefly with the view of carrying on exchange operations between those countries and China, are scarcely in a position to deal satisfactorily with the local trade which has become so much more extensive and varied than in former years.

This deficiency the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Company will supply, and will in fact assume the same position with relation to this Colony as the Presidency Banks in India, or the Banks of Australia in their respective localities.

The Establishment of a Mint in Hongkong, providing an adequate supply of proper currency, will render a local Banking medium essential to carry out its operations, and the almost certain disappearance of the existing Compradore system (so far as money in concerned) will also ensure Banks becoming in course of time the exclusive medium for the transaction of the monetary operations connected with trade.

For the anticipated success of this enterprise there are therefore ample grounds; and the great prosperity which has attended the working of other local associations in China clearly shews that the largest profits are obtained by those Public Companies which possess an interested local body of Proprietors or Shareholders whose support naturally forms a chief element of remunerative success.

The Bank will commence operations simultaneously in Hongkong and Shanghai and as the importance of its business at the latter place must be very great, it is intended to establish a local Board of Directors there for more effectually meeting the work. As circumstances render it advisable the Bank will establish Branches at other places.

In the distribution of Shares Hongkong and Shanghai will equally participate. Shares will also be reserved for the other ports in China and Japan and for persons residing elsewhere, who are directly interested in the China Trade.

Applications for Shares must be addressed until further notice, to the Provisional Committee, care of

THE COMMERCIAL BANK OF INDIA.

THIS Company has been formed for the purpose of purchasing a site in the Colony of Hongkong for Docks and constructing Docks and erecting suitable Premises thereon for carrying on the Business of Building or Docking and Repairing Steamers and Sailing Vessels, and for the purchase of the Docks now owned and carried on at Whampoa by Messrs. T. HUNT & Co. with the Appurtenances Plant and Good-will of the Docking Business of that Firm.

It is proposed to register, the Company as one of Limited Liability either under the Imperial Act or under any Ordinance which the local Legislature may pass enabling local Companies to do so, the property of the Company in the meantime being vested in the Trustees, and the Deed of Settlement of the Company, now in course of preparation, is being framed in accordance with this intention.

The very considerable increase in the number of Vessels employed in what may be termed local trade, or in voyages that either originate or terminate, at Hongkong, in addition to the great quantity of tonnage visiting the Port from all quarters of the World, afford ample scope for the remunerative operations of Dock Companies, in addition to those which are already in existence.

Application has been made to Her Majesty's Government with reference to obtaining a site for the proposed Docks in the Colony, and the project has been favourably entertained, steps being in progress to facilitate this object, the necessary preliminary investigations as to the suitable character of the proposed site having been conducted and satisfactorily reported upon by Mr. S. B. RAWLING.

Liberal support has been promised to the undertaking which it is contemplated must necessarily prove a very remunerative one.

Further applications for Shares can till further notice be addressed to the Undersigned from whom forms of application and all particulars can be obtained.

HONGKONG, 9TH SEPTEMBER, 1864.

We have hardly time, so near the departure of the Mail, to reply to the letter of the Honorable Mr. MURRAY, which appeared in our issue of yesterday, nor do we think our readers would peruse what we might say at mail time if we did reply. The points at issue between ourself and Mr. Murray appear to be involved in some confusion. We may state that we feel the utmost confidence in our being able to prove that he is totally mistaken. He came in with a fact at the eleventh hour, which assuredly destroyed our arguments—but in judging of what we previously said, and what was said at the meeting too, this important fact, being unknown to Mr. Murray as well as to ourself, must be sunk, and not taken into consideration at all.

We observe the introduction into the colony of some Singapore palanquins. They appear to obtain plenty of employment, but their scale of charges is perfectly unreasonable. Half a dollar per hour is the rate demanded and for a trip to Poke-foo-lum and back $5. If we remember aright the charge in Singapore for these vehicles is from one dollar to one dollar and a half per day.

Something of the kind is undoubtedly required here, but Hongkong is too hilly for such a heavy vehicle as the Singapore palanquin. Baskets with four good sized wheels, fitted with hoods and small dickeys, would we should think, prove the most suitable.

We learn from Canton that a correspondence has lately been carried on between the Governor General and the French Consul on the subject of the Coolie Trade. The Cuban and Peruvian coolie dealers, being unable to pursue their unrighteous calling at Macao or Hongkong, because of the surveillance of the authorities, sought to establish barracoons at Canton under the management of Frenchmen, who applied to their Consul at that port for facilities. The Consul, for some reason totally inexplicable to us, instead of turning the cold shoulder to such people, took their part warmly, and applied to the Provincial authorities for the necessary accommodation. This the Governor General refused and the correspondence above referred to ensued.

The Governor General decided that if coolies were required for French colonies, and were sent in French ships the Consul should have every facility; but H.E. would not submit to a French Consular cloak being thrown over the traffic if conducted on account of Spaniards and Peruvians, nations with which China has no treaty.

We deem the French Consul much scandalised by being made a fool of in the matter. How he meant to clear the ships is the point which should be explained. We should also like to know, whether he is allowed any fees on such business.

The question has been referred by the French Consul to the Minister for France at Peking. We would advise the Consul to eschew these coolie catchers.

ATTEMPTED ABDUCTION AND RESCUE.—Yesterday (Thursday) afternoon, the coolie overseer of road repairers had his attention called to some men who were taking a girl up the hill. He chased them and they all made off leaving the girl on the hill side. On his coming up with her she said that she had been seized by the villains and carried away from her home which is somewhere in Hongkong though she cannot state the locality. The girl is about twelve years of age, and her name is Ayune. She is to be heard of at Mr. Xavier's at the old Gent.

We have received the following from a Correspondent at Nagasaki, dated the 31st August.

It is a long time since I wrote you last; but there has been hardly anything worth while for me to write about. We are now on the alert looking for the Roonings. The Japanese say that as soon as Simonoseki is bombarded by the Fleet, they will come here and make trouble. The Prince of Fuzen, who for many years has always been a friend to foreigners, is reported to have joined Choshu. Fizen and "Iseho Corzen" have the command of all the ports and barracks here, and have commenced destroying all the barracks and villages near the forts for fear that they should be set on fire by the English shells, and have mounted guns where the barracks were. There ideas are that the English Fleet will get the worst of it at Simonoseki and will be obliged to come here for repairs, so Fizen will fire upon them, and finish with the Fleet altogether. The Japanese are unmistakably proud, and a fighting will do them a great deal of good. My opinion is that there will be no fighting whatever at Simonoseki, as Choshiu will give in immediately he sees the fleet near him: he is a great humbug he dares not fight foreigners, as he knows it will only be his ruination. It is reported by the Japanese Authorities that there has been hard fighting at Kioto (Cæsca) with Choshiu, and that the latter got the worst of it.

The Japanese here are now fencing in all the hills round and about the foreign settlement; they say it is to prevent any assault of the Ronins, but my idea is that they are politely bringing old Deolma ideas. It is a shame that the foreign consuls here should allow it; we should be ashamed of ourselves, as we are only shewing the Japanese that we are afraid of them. If the Roonings choose to come, let them come and we are strong enough to defend ourselves until we can safely get on board ship. The Japanese Governments have made a treaty, so they must abide by it, and he responsible for our lives and property. We have the Scylla here for our protection, and we have enough. We have also started a Volunteer Corps, which is called the "Nagasaki armed Fire Brigade;" you will see particulars of it in the North China Herald. The "Imperial," "London," and "Northern" Insurance offices of London have sent out as a present to the Corps a very handsome Fire Engine by Shandon and Masson which is very acceptable, and we all thank them very much for their kindness. We have at present forty eight members enrolled, and no doubt we shall have sixty in a few days as more people are coming in every day; we require a good military man to put us in working order.

News from the North.

HOOCHOW.

This city fell into the hands of the Imperialists on the 28th ultimo. We had previously learned from native reports that the Rebels were rapidly sinking into the state of misery which heralded the approach of the fall of Nanking. Rice was scarce, but actual starvation had not as yet set in. The most serious want was that of firewood, of which there was not a particle to be found. Deserted houses had been pulled down and coffins burned, and a general impression prevailed that the city could not hold out much longer, as supplies of every kind were cut off. At length, on the day mentioned, the garrison retired without beat of drum through a pass in the Tea Den hills into the province of Kiang-si. The disposition of the Imperial forces ordered in the Peking Gazette of August 1st, a translation of which we published in the last North-China Herald, would seem to have proved of no avail in stopping the retreat of the Hoo-chow garrison. What the course may be, whether they will subside quietly into the ranks of the peaceful inhabitants, or whether they retain sufficient organisation to attempt fresh conquests, may well become matter for speculation.—North-china Herald.

HANKOW.

Our correspondent says that the news of the fall of Nanking has excited, in the native residents, great hopes of an increase in trade at the former port. A rise has, in consequence, already taken place in the price of oil-paper and other commodities of the same class. The neighborhood of Hankow is perfectly tranquil; and it is hoped that it may now continue so, as the fall of Nanking will probably place large bodies of troops at the disposal of the Hupeh authorities, who will thus be enabled to hold the Nien-fei in that province in check.

The death of H. E. Kvan Wen, Governor General of the two Hu, is announced. It is said Li Futai will fill the vacancy.—Ibid.

PEKING.

A correspondent informs us that Sang-ko-lin-sin has been elevated to hereditary rank in consequence of the successes which have lately attended the Imperial arms. He has also received a despatch from the Emperor extolling his devotion, and commiserating the discomforts to which he subjected himself by prolonging a campaign into the middle of summer. His Imperial Majesty accordingly sends the Prince several packages of tea, and some cooling medicine. E-Ching Wang (the prince of Kung) has also been raised to hereditary rank, while his pay and allowances as a prince have been doubled. This latter mark of the Imperial favor is long however, declined.

NAGASAKI.

The natives at this port state that, as soon as hostilities commence in the Inland Sea, Nagasaki will be inundated by Ronins—a by no means pleasant look-out for foreigners. The Scylla has been sent down to relieve the Rattler, which in turn has replaced the Perseus, which has left Shanghai to join the fleet at Yokohama. It seems rather hard on the officers and men of the Rattler to keep them a second time out of the chance of distinguishing themselves. Last year when the fighting at Kagoshima was going on, the Rattler was stationed at Nagasaki, and she is now again sent out of harm's way. From the 14th to the 17th inst., the annual ancestral festival was kept up by the natives. On the 14th the dead were supposed to revisit their former dwellings, where they remained until the night of the 16th. On that night a vast number of straw boats brilliantly illuminated were thrown into the bay for the purpose of re-conveying the spirits to their different localities. The following evening was spent in dissipation of every description. Freight was at a stand still. The three masted iron schooner Cleopatra, after having waited for six weeks for cargo, was obliged to leave in ballast for Hongkong. Twenty-two merchant ships were in harbour.—Ibid.

From the Yokohama Market Report of 25th August.

We last reported that H. B. M's ships Barossa and Cormorant, which left here on the 21st ulto., with two Japanese who had lately returned from England, and who were to be used as the means of communication with the Prince Choshiu, on board, had proceeded to the proximity of Hangi, the city of that Prince, and had landed the Japanese; that the Cormorant went to the entrance of the Straits; that the Japanese forts fired two shots across the Straits, within a short distance of her bows, that the two vessels had returned with an answer which was believed not to be of a satisfactory character; that the two ships had returned to Yokohama; and that it was believed that unless some satisfactory assurance was received from Choshiu within 10 days, that the combined fleet would leave here to effect the opening of the Straits of Simonoseki by force. As the 20th instant drew nigh considerable bustle and activity were observable in all matters connected with the fleets. The Stores were being aboard the mess stewards preparing for the creature comforts of the officers and men on their protracted cruize; the order had been given to prepare for sea, the marines were all in readiness for embarkation; and we believe all was actually prepared for the departure of all the British squadron but one corvette, one despatch-boat and two gunboats, all the French and Dutch men-of-war, and an arrangement made that the U. S. Sloop Jamestown (the commander of which had offered to send a landing party of Marines per Ta Kiang to take part in the proceedings) to remain here to assist in the protection of the settlement and ships in harbour, when on Friday the 19th the P. & O. S. Ganges arrived, with, to the great surprise of all, the returned Japanese Embassy to France, in consequence of a recall by their government and with the intelligence that before leaving they had made a convention with the Emperor of the French, by which the Tycoon had engaged to open the Straits of Simonoseki within three months of their return. It was at once surmised that this important event would have the effect of checking, at least for the moment, any operation of the combined forces;—and so it proved. It soon became known that orders for immediate departure to sea had been countermanded, and believed that time would be afforded to see if the Tycoon's Government would ratify the agreement made by his Ambassadors; at the same time it was evident that the unexpected return of the Embassy, without so much as a visit to the other European Courts, taken in connexion with the peremptory refusal of all the Treaty Powers to enter upon negociations for the cession of any of the important rights of the Treaties, would in all probability hurry forward events and therefore, so far from the present delay of warlike proceedings against Choshui having calmed the excitement, it has probably tended rather to increase it upon the question, "what will be the next move upon this chequered board." At present we have no knowledge of this—and probably shall not have until almost the last moment of time mentioned.

We may however pretty surely surmise that if the Tycoon should not repudiate the convention made by the Envoys with the French Emperor, nothing in the matter of the Inland Sea will be done for the three months; that if, on the contrary, he should decline, or fail to do so, the endgels now temporarily laid down will be once again taken up, and the forts of Nagato possessed by the allied forces. We incline to think that should this latter alternative be enforced matters will not rest at that point; we shall know now who really we have to do with, and in that event, annoying though the present delay undoubtedly is, we shall have ultimate cause to rejoice at it.

In the mean time our business is, in great measure, at a dead lock. Not a single bale of Silk—although we hear there are large quantities at Yedo, has made its appearance in our market, and our trade in this, our principal staple stands thus—260 Bales—Against 11,915 1861-62, 25,891 1862-63, 15,931 1863-64. This state of affairs, of course rebounding upon the Import Trade, The Japanese Merchants anxious to close for many good in Stock, but unable to take delivery in consequence of the dollars being tied into our own hands by the closing of its most important outlet.

Of domestic occurrences we have had none of much importance.

PENINSULAR & ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

NOTICE OF REDUCTION OF PASSAGE MONEY.

IN the year 1857 the Directors made a considerable reduction in the Company's rates of Passage Money, which continued in force till 1861.

In that year, owing to the extraordinary rise in the Cost and Freight of Coals, and the enhanced price of all descriptions of Naval Stores, the Directors were reluctantly compelled to return to the rates of Passage Money previously in force. They are now happy to state that a decrease in the price of Coal and other expenses of Steam Navigation enables them to reduce the Company's Passage rates to the undermoted scale, which will take effect from and after the 1st June next, viz:—

From Hongkong to—

Suez,	$460
Malta,	510
Marseilles,	530
Gibraltar,	530
Southampton,	550

Reserved Rates for Single Persons.

Suez,	$929
Malta,	1,026
Marseilles,	1,060
Gibraltar,	1,060
Southampton,	1,100

Reserved Rates for Married Couples.

Suez,	$1,160
Malta,	1,280
Gibraltar,	1,348
Marseilles,	1,388
Southampton,	1,400

The charges for Children are in proportion to the above.

The above rates are exclusive of the amount payable to the Egyptian Transit Administration for conveyance of Passengers through Egypt, viz:—

For First-class Passengers, $32
Children above three and under ten years, half-fare.

By Order of the Managing Directors,

EXTRACTS.

Herr Von Bismark.

Recent events in Germany have made at least one thing clear, that the world was mistaken in its first estimate of the powers of Herr von Bismark When that person was first converted from a diplomatist into a premier, the majority of politicians on the Continent and almost all Englishmen thought the appointment one indicative of his master's want of judgment. It seemed so incredible that a mere country squire, known to be rash in counsel and incontinent of tongue, full of the narrowest junker prejudices, and despised by his own countrymen, should be a successful statesman, that people ordinarily not very sanguine thought that Prussia had advanced a great step towards a successful revolution. The impression was deepened by all the acts of the new Premier which attracted foreign attention. The true statecraft of kings under ordinary circumstances is to conceal strong acts under legal forms, but Herr von Bismark lost no opportunity of deriding the laws which appeared to interfere with the free prerogative. He treated the Prussian Parliament with a contempt which would have driven a people fit for freedom wild with disgust and indignation, broke through all the forms which protect deliberative order, laughed at the authority of the Commons, sneered at the chiefs of the independent parties, and told the nation flatly that if the necessary moneys were not forthcoming to carry on the King's Government would take them. He seemed indeed to deride the representatives with a persistance which suggested a deliberate policy intended to bring them into contempt, and his final announcement that the House had no authority over the Ministers sitting within it was equivalent to a coup d'etat. All Germany talked for some days of the possibility of a revolution, and the "impetuous Premier" ceased to have no friend but his Royal master. He had snubbed the national Verein by talking of unity as a revolution dream, and affronted the House of Hapsburg beyond,—we were going to say forgiveness, but kings forgive when forgiveness pays,—by suggesting that they had better remove to Pesth, as the true centre of the monarchy lay eastward. The combined annoyance of "Germany," Austria, and the Prussian people aroused irresistible, and Europe expected from day to day a movement which, if it did not shake the Hohenzollerns, would at least rid Prussia of her "Brummagem Strafford."

Europe understated the man. Much in the recent imbroglio is still obscure,—more especially the part played by Russia,—but this at least is clear,—Herr von Bismark had taken the measure of his own people, and of most of the Courts around him, possessed under all his incontinence of speech great powers of perception, a firm will, and that coarsest of all qualifications, political audacity. His cool contempt for Parliament really diminished its authority, for it emancipated both the bureaucracy and the army from any risk of being deserted by their chiefs through dread of Parliamentary censure. Englishmen, even with the example of Lord Palmerston before them, scarcely comprehend the political power of insolence, forget that Germans expect to be ruled by their sovereigns, and feel no more humiliated by their rebukes than sons do by the sarcasms which modern fathers substitute for reproof. Parliament made ridiculous, it became necessary first to form alliances useful for internal defence, then to divert the Prussians from dwelling on internal affairs, then to pacify Austria while still claiming the "hegemony," and finally to break the Power of the National Verein. Herr von Bismark accomplished in one year all those diverse ends. The Polish revolt gave him his first opportunity, and it was eagerly seized. The bayonets were with the Czar, and the Premier by arresting all refugees who trusted in the honour of Prussia, by marching an army on to the Polish frontier, by a pledge to send armed assistance should the revolution prevail, by threatening Earl Russell that if the Treaty of Vienna were declared at an end, he would support the Czar by force, earned the enduring gratitude of St. Petersburg. Here was support sure to be granted against the revolution, and then came the death of Frederick VII., and Herr von Bismark by assuming the direction of the inevitable war paralyzed the Verein, and compelled Austria, however unwillingly, to follow in his path. With the Prussian armies in motion the Liberal party was paralyzed, for the national object was being secured, and the little States dared not resist without full national sympathy, while Austria was compelled either to imitate Prussia or to see her rival outstrip her in the race for German favour. The Prussians fired up as nations fire up at the prospect of aggrandizement, the wrongs of the Parliament were condoned, the Press was placed in irons without opposition, and it is doubtful still whether the loans which the Government must have raised during the war will not be sanctioned before almost without discussion. Finally, Herr von Bismark gentified to the quick the national pride of Germany by meeting threats of foreign interference by an attitude of cool defiance. France appeared, to the public eye at least, uncertain, and England was are vedly hostile to to the invasion of Denmark, but Herr Bismark moved his troops on without attending to either. It is probable that he knew privately how little he had to fear, how difficult it was for Napoleon to break at once with the little Powers of Germany and the cry of the nationalities, how strong allies Germany had in England in Mr. Gladstone and the Court. But externally his attitude was one of resistance to external influence in a domestic question, an appeal to that imperial feeling which lies so close to the heart of every great nationality. Since Rosbach the Germans had never felt so keenly how great they really were. Austria and Prussia united, Denmark invaded, Napoleon silenced, Palmerston defied, Sweden bidden to retreat,—Germans felt proud of themselves and of each other, and nations pardon all to those who make them great abroad. Had James II. but maintained the foreign policy of Cromwell, the mob at least would never have shouted about the dispensing power. Nor can we deem the Germans altogether in the wrong. Success is not the test of statesmanship for Government requires moral qualities,—but it is of ability, and Prussians who see such results attained are right in believing that he who attains them is at least an able man. Nor, Judging from their point of view, can we pronounce the Premier wholly without a claim to the gratitude of those who can bear to suppose the national freedom to the national status. Prussia had fallen very low, the belief in the artificial character of its military was very general, and the doubts as to its army infected the people themselves. In twelve months Herr von Bismark has vindicated her claim to be one of the first Powers of Europe, has changed the depression of the army into an overweening confidence, has assured in reality the leadership in Germany which his predecessors have so long claimed. He may also have prepared great misfortune for his country, but the justice of Heaven is slow, the seizure of Silesia remains unpunished, and meanwhile no Kaiser will venture again to summon the German Princes to his stirrup without at the least a cordial previous agreement with Berlin. These are great results for Prussia, enough at least to convince her that if she did not misjudge she at least underrated the equire so suddenly raised to the helm. The truth would seem to be that Herr von Bismark belongs to that order of which the Napier family are the best English examples, men of the true Gascon stamp, whose boasting covers courage and not the absence of it, who talk loudly but perform ances falls only short of their talk, who can be insolent when cordial, but whose insolence is based not upon pride but on a conscious sense of power.

People tell us very gravely and solemnly that the influence, of persons is dying, and Tennyson, with Louis Napoleon on the throne, sings how "the individual withers, and the world grows more and more," yet look what this single man has done. He has visibly retarded the revolution, has driven back the current which was setting in all over Europe towards freedom. It is not yet two years since every country in Europe except Russia became criminally constitutional, since the resuscitation of Poland was a very visible possibility, since the Pope was asking an asylum in Malta, and Greece was about to strike the note of general Turkish revolt. Setting aside phrases, how stands it now? Poland is crushed to the ground, the Pope is as strong as ever, the only free State of the North has disappeared, the Greek revolution has ended in a fiasco, the constitution has ceased in Prussia and become powerless in Austria, and three men, heads of three of those ancient Royal houses which for generations have so burdened Europe, are independent masters of a million and a half of trained soldiers, of a conscription which can replace them, of the public wealth, taxes, duties, and monopolies through two-thirds of territorial Europe, and more than one-half its population. And all this has occurred simply because the Prussian Court has called to its aid a man who, devoted to reactionary ideas, has the brains to discover means which may be effectively used on their behalf, and the evil audacity to use them without dread of results. All this success is temporary, for principles never die, and nations survive statesmen; but "a time" in history involves sometimes a generation, and for "a time" Europe has no more formidable enemy than Herr von Bismark.—The Spectator.

The Holy Alliance.

The Continental press—especially that of France—continues to discuss eagerly the rumoured revival of the Holy Alliance. In spite of the persistent denials of Austria and Prussia, few well-informed politicians appear to doubt the substantial authenticity of the despatches published by one of our morning contemporaries. According to La France, which is not likely to say anything that would be distasteful to M Drouyn de Lhuys, the negotiations between the three Powers are still in progress, and are directed to two points: "reciprocal engagements for efficient joint action in the repression of an eventual rising in some parts of Poland; and extension of this common action to all the questions in which the Conservative principle will be compromised within the radius of the political influence of the three Courts." The same authority informs us that so far as Prussia and Russia are concerned the accord is complete, but that Austria demands more than the other Powers of it all events, her North German rival are willing to grant. Indeed if these demands are correctly stated, it seems impossible that Prussia should listen to them. She might be willing to join in a guarantee of Hungary or Venetia; but even Mr. von Bismark must shrink from pledging himself to support the Court of Vienna in any policy it might adopt "relative to the events that may arise in Italy on the death of the Pope," and it is well known that neither the King nor the people of Prussia are at all disposed to entertain the plan of Federal reform proposed last year by the Emperor Francis Joseph. If, therefore Count Rechberg's views are not misrepresented by the French journal we can readily believe that the course of the negotiations has not run entirely smoothly, and that no formal and positive arrangement has yet been arrived at. But, on the other hand, the Gazetta di Venezia an official Austrian paper, distinctly asserts that the alliance, between the three Powers is concluded, and points not obscurely to joint action as one of the Powers against which it is directed. According to this paper, the allies will co-operate with France and England in the pacification of Europe—in repairing the wrong done by the revolution in securing a triumph for justice, and in inducing the nations to live together in peace and order. No one can fail to observe the striking resemblance between this language and that which used to be held by the old Holy Alliance, nor is it necessary to point out the real meaning of this unctuous phraseology. The official scribes of Austria, Prussia, and Russia may say what they please, but England, France, and Italy may regard as a menace any close alliance between the other three Powers. That such alliance is in contemplation does not seem open to reasonable doubt, although we have already said the terms may not be finally settled. That to whatever extent it does now or may hereafter exist, it is, or will be, a league against freedom—a sort of mutual assurance against revolt of despots—is too plain for argument.—London Review.

NOTICE.

It is respectfully announced to the Public that the old-remembered shop was established in March last 1861 at Honam, on the left side of Chun-fa Temple and in the building of Shew-shing, European goods shop, where Nanking Porcelain Jars adapted for holding sweetmeats, are made for sale, the price is 8 cents each. These Nanking Porcelain Jars are far the best that can be used for containing sweetmeats for exportation to Great Britain and America, as the sweetmeats in them are kept air-tight without ever being spoiled or changed.

But at the present time, most of the sweetmeat shops use Canton earthern Jars instead of Nanking Porcelain, for containing sweetmeats, because the price of the Canton earthern Jars is only 2 cents each.

Although the prices of the two kinds of jars above mentioned are far different, the latter kind will not keep the sweetmeats from being changed or spoiled, because they are not so well made as the former kind.

ATTENTION!

IT having come to my knowledge through a letter I have just received from Whampoa, that there are at present at that place certain Chinese dressed in European costume, who are said to be kidnapping their countrymen as coolies for the Macao barracoons, using my name as the party for whose account the traffic is being carried on. I deem it my duty to make it known that I have no connection either direct or indirect with these notorious, I never have taken an interest in the Coolie trade as being entirely opposed to my principle.

I have also to add that the most effective means have been adopted for the apprehension and conviction of the culprits.
